

Advanced Integrative Therapy (AIT) Treatment for the Projected Life Purpose

Content

PROJECTED LIFE PURPOSE is a project that gives new meaning to the conception. Thus, the birth is the result of the mother's and father's projected life purpose. It is what the parents expect and project into their child. For example, "My son, you'll help your parents save their marriage..." or "My daughter, you'll care for me in my old age". These projections inevitably head our lives at times the positive way and at other times the negative one. This webinar includes an overview of the stages of biological development, a review of a proposed AIT treatment plan to treat the projected life purpose, practice time with colleagues using the treatment plan, and one monthly follow-up session for case reviews and to answer any questions.
